Elucidates the Mysteries of Dress as Well as the Mysteries of Social Popularity

frocks which I want to tell you about.

see in the sketch was of gray veiling broidery of gray taffeta applied here and ther This embroidery was in a design of oak leaves and acorns. The waist simulated a loose lacket falling over a wide belt of a darker shade of panne. Down loca r the ng at re at 77; 3 degr

egree y mei degr

ce th

ation

for S ight

st m

CON

nd s eavy t an . It oort a

R. J. For

MPH

T CE

WEST.

BR

hacl o ass Die was that artille comment class ty, and es to elub jo give Meth appe Ree Miss Mr. nard.

compa he do the a rung, aprove of seep treet, eithe, nt He tha rom a rom a storeen es to that a ch

ay:

the front were Costume of gray. and the jacket effect opened enough

T a garden party I went to and incidentally cultivating the ac-the other day, which by the quaintance of that female potentate, way was given up the river If the blue spectacled Daughters of on one of the old Dutch estates. Progress gives a suchre, sire as fate and some day I think I'll teave of critishem nemor. Ministers preach sermons the whole state campaign for the wolf there were some very pretty you'll find her there punching the cising my own sex for once and let him at and about them, political orators and man's cause. She appointed her lieuphich I want to tell you about. the Association For Providing Aged Seamen With False Teeth you're likely to run across her footing it with the youngest

She keeps her ears open, she buys tickets wherever it is possible, and sometimes where it is apparently impossible she wire pulls. She has the nerve of a bull terrier and the endurance of a camel.

And yet does the camel have as hard a time of it with the needle's eye as the woman who makes her way by subscription things and afternoon teas?

Don't Become Blase.

The great thing in the game is not to ecome blase. It's pretty hard to avoid the state if one is naturally thoughtful, And, by the way, here's another thing you don't want to indulge in too muchthinking. The people who think and to give a glimpse of lace caught the people who have ideals and the here and there with a jabot of white people who don't like to pretend they The sleeves had long cuffs of are having a good time were never was ornamented around the bottom down and have mental malaria. In with the taffeta embroidery. By the way, I notice that all the prevailing styles are very loose. In fact, the only parts of the costume which seem to be fitted are the belt, the tops, and thingamajigs and you look at the of the sleeves and the hips. Nothing ruins a dress more than having it fit annely. By far the smartest hat of the season and you see it in the same pictureis of burnt straw, rather coarse in texture and trimmed with fluffy black ostrich tips.

Another costume worn at this same garden party was of soft old rose crape | trimmed with fantastic patternings way it was not meant to go-just for done in narrow black and white braid, pure contrariness. You frighten the There is nothing smarter for trimming debutantes and the nice little boys, purposes than this same black and while as for the plump matrons who white braid, let me tell you.

The Social Climbers.

Oh, the merry social game! some of its most cherished votaries sampling champagne or trying to indesert it in disgust and bury themselves terest an helress or indulging in any In the slums, where there is at least a other strenuous occupation. genuine although a very terrible life, and where one can do something of some account.

And yet the social climbers are indefatigable! I have in mind the case of my friend Mrs. Binks, who came out of sparrow or any other small brained The worldly wise old bachelors absolutely friendless. At the present whole heart. moment she hasa't an evening she can call her own. How does she do it? Oh, a chaperone, the unfortunate woman is traditions of centuries and go unveiled. of any woman. Four Hundred: but you'll find her ward, does all she can to change wherever she can push in. If the High-steeple church gives a sociable, lo and behold, she is in the corner cutting cake or selling toys in the booth next to that or selling toys in the booth next to that or selling toys in the booth next to that or selling toys in the booth next to that of secupled by Mrs. Highmonkeymook and a lot of other things and we don't limit in the linterests of the lady is accompanied by her husband, in the interests of the lady is accompanied by her husband, a Swede, who occupied an improvant railroad school which she attended ought to shall feel satisfied nutrition and very said hotel people at a cost very mod-bave a woman superintendent. She went to work to bring about tax the Presoyterian Sunday should be not the half hour and then take off the lid. They shall be proper to eat. It can be stripe and plain portion thickly sprinded.

We are all very civilized and cultured them as lecturer. Americans would probably be pleased to see her here. of course not with invitations from the horror stricken and, in the interests of The lady is accompanied by her hus- These "good times," these rare jour-other words, they become blase. That's a pretty bad state to be in, le me tell you.

You wander through a maze of teas people and you yawn one perpetua internal yawn-same men, same women same things to eat, same things to say, same smiles even, that were used the season before. You might talk, of course, but what's the use! Let the other people do that. Now and then, just to let them know you are there. you pick up some thread of conversa tion and twist it in a few words the don't understand you, they feel vague ly uncomfortable, and only the worldly wise old bachelors look up at you with gleam of fellow feeling-that is, it It is no wonder that now and then they are not too busy eating truffles or Popularity's Sign Manual.

No! If a desire to please your fellow beings is actuating you, if you ache to be popular, take as your emblem the cheerful little creature capable of making a great deal of noise, and for your motto, "Just a little."

smile, just a little love, just a little hate, just a little enthuslasm, just a little jolly-but as you value your suc cess, not a great deal of anything!

home in Fort Worth, Tex., from the The Clubwoman, organ of women's Aima-Tadema, as an author.
Klondike, where she went in 1898, and clubs, will hereafter have as its editor. Some time ago Mrs. Sarah perfected a car cable, while Mme. Rauly of her own efforts in digging gold.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

Mrs. Olar Lee has returned to her Commissioner Luling of Kansas.

want the real article in emotions: we really don't. We leave that sort of feeling to the slums and to the people tion.

Mary Garrett Hay, The pretense you see never disturbs or shocks or calls for any special ef-fort-and then, too, it is so much more Organizer of Women's Associations

TO STATE OF

planned than an annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage associa-

Railroads, hotels and boarding houses give specially favorable rates,

O great church or political tional American Woman Suffrage asso-gathering could be better ciation. Woman's brain cannot plan the fair guests when they arrive in the constitution a strenuous effort was ing residents welcome the ladies and do as a plank. Miss Hay had charge of philanthropists make addresses at their | tenants-brave; willing and earnest as meetings, and special excursions to herself-and they did heroic workcention city. The mayor and lead- made to incorporate woman suffrage large enterprises? Mary Garrett Hay

They almost won it, how near few in the United States know, Woman suffrage was carried throughout the whole state as far as Sacramento. Then in the three cities of Sacramento, Oakland and San Francisco the women were beaten by between 5,000 and 6,000

Bitterest dose of all, it was the Chinese vote that did it. You did not know that Chinese could vote in this country.

Well, neither did I until Miss Hay reminded me the other day that all male natives in this land have the birthright of suffrage, and there you are. Chinese have been coming to California and bringing their female counterparts now more than forty years. Thousands of had never seen American soil-have been born and reared to man's estate

Man. Beware!

who just plain "live."

The modern woman is certainly worth studying. With her it is a triumph of cleverness and subtle strength. The weak strength and the great foolish heart of the woman before her are fast becoming memories.

To be elever is the greatest modern feminine virtue; to care the greatest force their sisters into that course of and accommodations are all ready for at the time of the adoption of the state action; you must take into consideration his majesty the modern man, He has changed as much as she has

But it isn't alone the women who

KATE CLYDE.

THE NEW HAIR NET.

To keep her tresses tidy when summer breezes blow, the up to date girl covers her low coiffure with one of the new silk nets which are beginning to make their way,

A TURKISH WOMAN LECTURER

Just a little graciousness, just a little When such a girl falls to the lot of effort on her part to break through the lit is enough to make a suffragist out be published in New York.

Some time ago Mrs. Sarah F. Dick. Crown effects and built ove women who come to the annual conven-A very beautiful Turkish lady of high the assembly breaks up the real fun be-That's where now and then a ven- of her own sex in Turkey. Strange to man suffragists. Two years ago they turesome girl too full of life makes a say, she speaks no language but her went through Colorado and Yellowstone mistake. She allows herself to have own, and her appeals to the interest of park. This year, after being whelmed real whole feelings instead of three-eighths of feelings. She loves with her terpreter. The lady has the inter-whole heart and she hates with her ests of her own countrywomen so deep-and Mexico, bringing up finally in Caligoodness knows where a little less than whole heart: she admires with her ly at heart that she spares no pains to fornia exactly at the time when it is a spear ago and landed in this town whole heart and she is bored with her make their degraded position and want paradise of flowers and oranges in meeting.

In France Mme. Schwab has lately about $40,000 most of it the result of the Clubwoman. If is henceforth to The ladies of an Indiana town wanted the rich Oriental effects. But always that the pattern of the side wall is appublic improvements. The men would they give that artistic, unbroken effect propriately finished, apparently without has designed a tack to be used by uphas designed a tack to be used by uphas designed a tack to be used by upholsterers, with ornamental head of celbeen appointed an examiner of insurthe artist, are themselves already distook hold of the matter themselves and and finished air to an apartment.

Don't bathe in ha ance companies by State Insurance tinguished—one, Miss Airea-Tadema, as

Cleaned up the whole town, cut down

All of the matter themselves and tinguished—one, Miss Airea-Tadema, as

Cleaned up the whole town, cut down

The fellow is a pulle of the matter themselves are as popular as ever for with a little borax of the matter themselves and the companies by State Insurance tinguished—one, Miss Airea-Tadema, as

The two daughters of Alma-Tadema, do nothing. Then the women at last at the top which lends such a refined to the matter themselves and and finished air to an apartment.

Serge suits are as popular as ever for with a little borax of the matter themselves and the companies by State Insurance tinguished—one, Miss Airea-Tadema, as cleaned up the whole town, cut down an artist; the other. Miss Lawrence the weeds and built over a mile of Crown effects in wall papers are con- Blue is the most sought for shade. she is said to have brought with her in chief Mrs. Dore Lyon, president of cashier of a national bank at Hunting- fined to floral patterns. They come in Quite new in wall paper is an effect printed card "respectfully announcing ing summer wear. This fabric is cool and Hay's first important achievement. In her temperance works she learned parliamentary usage and made a careful study of it. She also became familiar with the financial management of women's organizations. The next step was that she became warmly interested in woman suffrage and began to work for that. At length she went from town to town, from city to city, organizing woman suffrage clubs.

'How do you do it?" Well, I would go into a town, not knowing a soul. I would ask first for children left without any support, and the postmaster, the editor and a prominent minister. These I would call on on my sister's husband, and he has as is proof to the contrary.

The political party that could secure and get from them the names of public much as he can do to take care of his her as a state organizer might deem ment up to us, nearly crazy. them and got them to help me | trouble, is it?" call a meeting. sometimes in a private parlor, again in a pubwomen and be-years I have in their griefs." Mary Garrett Hay. labored for it.

was the organizer of the

And I never was snubbed by man or woman," said Miss Hay. She has journeyed thousands of around the globe, on her mission. She cars and by wagon, by every possible means of locomotion, arriving many a in San Francisco and its vicinity, and time in a place at 1 or 2 o-clock in the they can vote. Moreover, the very elements that ordinarily are most rabid "I never had a man act toward me otherwise than as a gentleman," she against the yellow man in 1896 trotted him out to the last unit and made him said. "I have had a station agent take cast his ballot to keep the ballot right his lantern and escort me in the night from white women. So there you are to a hotel. No matter how rough or

But it was a glorious cam- coarse a man seemed to be, he was alpaign for the women nevertheless. "It | ways a gentleman. was the happiest year of my life," says Mary Hay. At its close she returned to manhood her work of organizing woman suffrage | Miss Hay is at present railroad secreclubs throughout the Union. She has tary for the N. A. W. S. A. Because of a natural bent for organizing and man- her stanch conservatism, for one thing, must have meant no small effort to volaging as well as for political work. She she is an invaluable servant to the was born and spent her childhood and cause so dear to her. Others may lose earliest girlhood in Indiana, across the their heads or tempers or fly off on a Ohio river not far from Louisville, wild goose chase; she never does. She Her father was a physician and promment Indiana Republican. Her mother | hair like a glory round her head, with died when she was a few years old and sparkling dark eyes, flashing white left her to her father. He took her with teeth and a frank, merry smile. You him in his carriage when he visited his will not find a brighter, handsomer, patients. Many places she went with more wholesome woman in a journey him; even sometimes when he presided across this continent, that journey

One of her first recollections is of sitting upon her father's knee and listening to the falling showers of political pratory; one of her first rem mbered mental operations is thinking that when she got older she, too, would like to make political speeches, not knowing then that for a girl politics was tabooed. When at length she did find it out she began at once to work for the good time coming when -women might have a voice in public affairs.

She went to school at the famous old Western Female seminary at Oxford, tion in a luxurious special train. After O. After she left school she learned to be a druggist in her father's pharmacy. A very beautiful Turkish lady of high gins. There are always deligatful tours But all her heart was in philanthropic birth is making a tour through Earope of from one to three weeks, again at low labors - temperance work at first. for the purpose of improving the life rates, to be enjoyed by the fortunate wo- Thence the girl reformer drifted out upon a broader current toward the progress and complete emancipation of woman. This brought her into contact with Zerelda Wallace, the beloved step. mother of Lew Wallace, whom, unknown to the subject thereof, he made the model for his type of all noble motherhood in the story of "Ben-Hur." Oh, the things I learned from dear Mother Wallace!" says Miss Hay.

At the age of seventeen Mary Hay At the age of seventeen Mary Hay decided that the Presbyterian Sunday will be to eat this in that manner they ural colored floral effects or with small,

It is a grand tribute to American is a woman with prematurely white at political conventions he took her and Mary Garrett Hay herself has taken held her in his arms. If she went to so many times in the interests of her slegp he laid her down somewhere to sex. She has a strong, sincere, enerone side when he rose to address the getic voice, the voice of a woman who can make things hum.

LILLIAN GRAY.

ABOUT GLOVES.

No unduly thick or plump hand should ever be encased in anything lighter in the way of gloves than a mouse colored tint, unless the wearer be all in white. Thus declares an authority on gloves.

White gloves should never be worn by anybody who is not wearing another distinctive touch of white on gown or hat. The contrast is too crude. The Black gloves should only be worn with black gowns and coats. For your gown in every shade of brown, from

FROM JAPAN.

An English lady in Japan bought a can of mushrooms and found the directions translated into English as folwith a little borax or oatmeal.

day school! That was Mary Garrett $444444444444444444 Secondhand Troubles

$4444444444444444444444444 A H. I'm worried almost out of my

"What's the matter?" "Oh, my sister's sister-in-law's hus-band is very ill; not expected to live! If he dies, there'll be his wife and three the whole family will have to bunk in spirited women. Then I went to see the own. What 'll become of my poor sister itself well off. In California in 1896, ladies themselves. I talked the move- I don't know. She and I are, both of

"But it isn't your own personal

"No, but I'm troubled to death on my poor sister's account. "But it is not even your sister's trouble, directly. Isn't it your sister's lic hall. There sister-in-law's husband who is ill? He I addressed the is the one who suffers.

"Yes, but it's cruel and inhuman not fore I left a town to worry over your relatives' troubles."

I usually had "Is it, indeed? Can you do your relaorganized a suf- tives the slightest good by fretting frage club vicariously for them? Did you ever among them, see any woman at all do any good even For eight years to those she loves best by fretting and worrying over their misfortunes?"

"No, I don't say I ever did. But I do general associa-tion; for twelve didn't sympathize with our own family

"Sympathize with them, yes, But what's the good of making a dozen persons miserable over one individual's mishaps. Upon my word, that constimiles, certainly a distance of twice tutes half the trouble of women in this life, worrying over other people. They Chinese-as much Chinese as if they has traveled night and day, in cattle think it shows off their womanly, sympathetic nature to advantage, when often it merely shows off a sickly sentimentalism. Now, look here;

"Troubles and misfortunes are the outward casting off of erroneous mental conditions. Physicians tell us even disease is many a time the outcome of wrong thoughts. Bad habits which result in disease certainly come from wrong thought and desire. Now, you would not put on your relatives' old, secondhand garments and hug them fondly to you and wear them, would you? Then why should you wear their troubles, especially when you cannot thereby do them a grain of good and only do yourself harm? "The only result of fret and worry to a woman, even over her own miseries, is that she grows old and haggard and wrinkled and upsets her digestion and nervous system. As she thus injures her body, in the like ratio she upsets her mental poise and injures her very power to help herself and others. Is it worth while?"

"But there's my sister's only son going to the bad. Oughtn't she to worry

"No, a thousand times no! She has done all she could to stop him. Now fet him go. In his case there seems no other way. No mother owns her chiidren. After reaching years of accountability they are as much individuals as she is. They must live their own lives, must save their own souls. She has done her best prayerfully for them; now they belong no more to her, but to themselves. They must learn the lessons they need most from experiences of their own. She would be doing them wrong if she sought to take their troubles on herself, even if she could. In the great round up every soul must stand for itself. "But any woman with a speck of

"Don't tell me that! You can stop worrying. Any woman with a speck of brains knows that she has within her the God power to control her own emotions, every one. She knows too, that only evil comes from fretting and anxiety. Therefore she casts this harmful thought all out of her mind and trusts to the good God to bring everything right, after she has done the best she knows. The worry habit is every whit as injurious as the tobacco or alcohol habit, and there is not a woman living who cannot break it off. Especially she can stop the unpleasant habit of putting on secondhand troubles.

JANE MOSES

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

Miss Nightingale, the first woman army nurse, was eighty-three years old May 15. From childhood she was greatly interested in nursing matters, and later in life she was fully trained in nursing by the Protestant Sisters of Mercy at Kaiserwerth on the Rhine. It unteer for the Crimea, but the sufferings of the wounded haunted her thoughts night and day. War is always terrible, but its terrors before the nursing movement were aggravated in a hundred ways. Miss Nightingale's endurance during the campaign was remarkable. Every evening, it is said, she walked through six miles of wards, and to every very dangerous case she gave her personal attention. It is not surprising that the wounded men blessed even her shadow as it fell upon the wall. She reduced chaos to order and never spared herself, standing on more than one occasion for twenty consecutive hours. After the war terminated a testimonial was offered to her of $500,000, but she devoted the whole of the fund to the founding of a home for nurses. Miss Nightingale is very reserved with strangers and dislikes notoriety of any kind.

OBJECTING TO PHOTOGRAPHS. It is said that Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll, has maintained for upward of twenty years her dislike of any portrait of herself being reproduced. In woman with a large hand, if it is well has been able to give any but snap shots consequence of this veto no newspaper shaped, may wear white, but not a pure of the princess unless one is reproduced white; rather the "oyster" white, with in which changes of fashion make the photograph look out of date. It is not that the princess has not been photographed fairly often, but that she will not consent to the photograph being rechocolate down to the range of mastic produced. The result is that the really and paste lines, you can have gloves beautiful face of her royal highness is far less known than the faces of any other members of the royal family.

SUMMER DRESS PATTERNS.

Wool delaines, veiling and French lows: "Directions.-If several persons plain sheer surface is figured with patchallies are prominent this season. The the New York City Federated Clubs. ton. Ind., retired after thirty years' the Empire designs in conventional patterns suitable for dining rooms, and in It means that the border is so designed daughter from her husband. This is a new wrinkle Miss E. A. Hardy is treasurer of the Grand Opera House, Boston. Don't bathe in hard water. Soften it Don't be afraid of sunshine and fresh air and deep breathing. They offer you A young married couple agreed to disbloom and color.

mother. The brides' parents issued a patented an apparatus for sardine fish-comfortable looking and dressy as well. agree, and the lady went home to Mme. Garnier, a French woman, has